Security Deposits Guide

A security deposit is collected before move-in to cover unpaid rent or damage beyond normal wear and tear. Deposits are typically held for the full lease term and returned after move-out, less any legitimate deductions. To claim your deposit back, submit a written request with move-out date, forwarding address, and photos. Any deductions must be itemized. If you disagree with a deduction, you may file a deposit dispute.